Content

Indonesians will often add an ending onto another word to change its meaning. For example, the word “kamu” means your, and the word “nama” means name. We will see these words combined in a sentence such as, “Siapa namamu?” or “What is your name?” We can see this same sentence written as “Siapa nama kamu?” which is the extended form.

* In the same way the word “nya” is used. It means his/her/it. So we can also add it to words. Look at these examples.

Activities

Read through the slide with the students.
